Hopes and Fears
The Moon and Radio
A Readily Fast Plane
Don't Exasperate Wasp

The world is full of hopes and fears, especially fears.

Chairman Legge of the Farm Board believes that farm products have reached bottom prices. The turned bottom hopes so.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, formerly President of the German Reichsbank, predicts a halt in reparations payments by Germany.

British hope the United States will "have a heart" and voluntarily reduce from already reduced payment on the British debt.

Our foreign friends will admit that when another war starts, Uncle Sam will be justified in moving slowly towards fresh foreign loans, even if we are told that Germany, or Mongolomia, may come over and eat us alive.

A League of Nations report shows that practically all the world's illicit drug trade is centered on the United States, financed here to the tune of millions and has increased since prohibition came in. It is easier to hide a few ounces of cocaine or morphine than to hide a keg of beer. And a small package of drugs can do more harm than 1,000,000 kegs of beer.

On the South Pacific island of Niuafoo, where scientists were successful in photographing the eclipse, this strange thing happened: As the moon passed between earth and sun, shutting out light, it also shut out whatever it is that enables us to send radio messages. While the eclipse lasted the radio would not work over the Pacific, scientists could send no radio messages.

That would interest Zoroaster, who taught men to worship the sun.

Inspiring news from Germany, where at the moment, they are building a plane intended to fly 25,000 feet above the earth, at 500 to 600 miles an hour, to make the trip from Berlin to New York in six hours. That will come in time, although this machine may have its troubles.

The plane, with a "fish-like" body, will drive in its wants and other landing gear. Oxygen will be fed to the engine and passengers will travel in an airtight compartment, manufacturing their atmosphere as they go along. We may have our slumps and industrial stoppages, but Science doesn't stop.

The Government of France opens war on stock market riggers, and warns of punishment. When the French say it, they mean it.

Long ago some Frenchmen specialized in wheat, making bread so dear the poor couldn't eat it. The French Government did not say "Naughty, naughty," and let it go at that. They passed a law, and enforced it, sentencing to hard labor in prison anybody speculating for an increase in food prices.

President Hoover appoints a committee of able men, Secretaries Mellon, Lamont, Davis, Hyde, Wilbur, Hurley and Empress Mayor, of the Federal Reserve, to "strengthen the organization of Federal activities for employment during the Winter."

The President, concluding his statement, says "as a nation we must prevent hunger and cold to those of our people who are in honest difficulties."

Oliver Wendell Holmes expressed the same idea well in his Yorktown oration about fifty years ago:

"The poor must be wisely aided and liberally cared for, so that mendicity shall not be tempted into mendacity nor want exasperated into crime."

We have too much coal, too much wheat, too much of everything. Hunger and cold should be unknown to men willing to work.

The British are criticised for establishing their expensive dole, breeding idleness. But if it be a choice between dole and revolution the British decision may be wise.

The Navy has ordered a plane carrier, to cost $19,000,000, a good idea, although progress in aviation will soon make the carrier as useless as a baby carriage to a full grown man.

It seems strange to read that the London Treaty "allows us" to build 135,000 tons of aircraft carriers, up to December 31, 1936.

Uncle Sam once needed no one's permission to defend himself as he thought fit. And he was smaller and weaker in those days.

His present mental attitude recalls the saying of a Democratic leader on Rhodes Island, "We used to have all the ships and iron men. Now we have iron ships and wooden men."

Henry Ford says: "I cannot help thinking that tariff protection is an excuse for laziness."

It may be sometimes, in industry. But if Ford were trying to sell eggs in competition with eggs brought from China, he would sell his hens and call it a day. Also, if Germany had no tariff against foreign automobiles, Ford would not be manufacturing automobiles in Germany, and raising German wages to new high rates.

The business of a father is to protect his children. The business of a Government is to protect its citizens and its industries.

Democrats Wage Strong Campaign

Smith Reiterates Attack On The Republican Administration

With no Republican opposition in this district, the Democrats will take the field at the polls next Tuesday against the Socialist and Independent parties for Congressional offices. Democrats are nationally waging an intensive campaign as the election draws near.

New York, Oct. 20.—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, reiterating his attacks upon the Republican administration at Washington, last night in a radio address made three charges against the Republicans, listing them as follows:

1. They made campaign pledges of continuing prosperity which they could not redeem. 2. They refused to face the business crisis until it was forced upon them. 3. They failed to take necessary steps to relieve the situation.

Washington, Oct. 20.—On the same evening, Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, stated that postponement of the administration's efforts to relieve unemployment "until the very eve of the congressional election arouses the suspicion that the interest is as much political as humane."

Employment of 20,000 men in the nations shipyards for the coming year was assured Wednesday by the shipping board.

Red Cross Drive Leaders Appointed

Mrs. S. N. Thornton, county chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call, has been organizing her work during the past week and appointing committees for the drive which will open Nov. 11 and last through Thanksgiving.

The membership drive in the local school will be conducted by W. T. Smith, who will take charge of the drive among the high school boys; Miss Kate O'Brien, who will have charge of the high school girls, and Miss Blaine McDearmon, who will take charge in the grades.

Miss Mary Featherston will add Mrs. Thornton in organizing the work in the local churches. Miss Ursula Woodridge will take charge at Evergreen, and Alfred O'Brien in the Cloverhill District. Other committees have not been appointed.

S. J. Lee Celebrates Eightieth Birthday

The eightieth birthday of S. J. Lee, route 1, was celebrated last Sunday with a dinner at his home, "Lee's Old Mill" which has been in the family for over 150 years.

Those celebrating the birthday were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Meador and children, Louise Howard, Mavis and Irving Lee, of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Ransom, Samuel, and Herman Lee, T. Lee, Ethelyn, Bertrand, Lawof Appomattox, Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Tilden Lee, of Stonewall, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee, of Wesley Chapel, Mr. S. G. Harvey.

SUPERVISOR'S GROUP TO MEET IN ROANOKE

Final organization of the Association of Virginia County Supervisors will be effected at a meeting at Roanoke on November 14, and Governor Pollard and former Governor Byrd will be asked to speak. Others on the program will be J. Sinclair Brown, of Salem, speaker of the House of Delegates, together with C. C. Reed and W. W. Overbey, of Richmond, who several years ago were instrumental in forming a similar organization, which was short-lived. Those in charge of the movement say the purpose of the association is to promote the efficiency of county government.

COLORED WOMAN SHOT

The wife of Irving Stratton, colored, of Stonewall, was shot last Sunday when Irving shot at William Turner, colored, missing him and sending the bullet through his wife's hip. She is now in a hospital at Lynchburg.

Coal, Formerly Quarried, Is Now Manufactured

CONTEST NOW ON SUGGESTS ECONOMIC IMPORTANCE OF COAL

The contest long waged between the Pennsylvania and Southern coal operators over the freight differential and now before the Interstate Commission for settlement, brings to mind the importance of coal in our economic system.

Countless years go into the making of coal, which is produced by the chemical action of decayed forest and vegetable matter under high pressure. Seams of coal, varying in thickness from 2 to 8 feet, are found running parallel to the earth's surface.

The first step in the mining of coal is drilling to test the possibility, and if prospects are good, drifting a main entry or haul-way about a hundred feet in length. The work is done from right to left, creating rooms, leaving pillars, or partitions for support. Later, when all the coal has been removed, the miners do what they call "robbing" the mine, which means cutting out the pillars and substituting artificial props. This is somewhat hazardous as there is a danger in the state falling, crippling or killing the workmen. Every half-million of tons of coal mined costs the life of a miner.

Ventilation is procured by the use of large fans; drainage, by gravity or the installation of mine pumps. The average temperature of a mine is about 55 degrees the year around. A third is sent in to detect the presence of gas. Miners use carbide lamps, except where the indication of gas in the mines makes it necessary to use electric lamps.

Coal was formerly quarried, but today it is manufactured. The more modern mines are electrically lighted and equipped with electric cutting machines, which have supplanted the shovel and the pick. Electric loading machines put the coal in small cars, which are run with electric motors. In former days mules and ponies hauled the cars to the "tipple".

At the tipple the coal is placed over screens of various size mesh. Pieces of slate and bone are removed, the impurities sinking while the coal remains on top.

There are two methods of cleaning. "The dry cleaning" method has even penetrated the coal industry, while the older way, which is the hydro-process, is called the "May-tag". After the coal has been graded it is run down an incline into the waiting freight cars.

The by-products of coal are many and varied: domestic and industrial gas, antiseptics, asprin, dyes of all colors, including over five hundred shades. Marvel was the first coal tar dye discovered and is used in the English postage stamps. Then there is a special dye for photography which is a by-product of coal.

Coal is divided into two great classes, bituminous, soft and high volatile; anthracite, which is hard and low volatile. As the coal comes from the mine, before it has been sized, it is known as "run-of-mine", and much of it is sold in this state.

Bent Creek Woman Shoots Her Husband

Mrs. Leonard McCormick, of Bent Creek, shot her husband through the shoulder with a 30 shell early last Saturday morning as he came out of the home of Mrs. Herbert Stevens. Mr. McCormick was not seriously wounded.

Mrs. McCormick was bailed Monday, her bond being set at $500 and the preliminary hearing was set for Nov. 8. The shooting was of long standing but it is reported that the couple have already become reconciled. It is expected that an acquittal will be given at the hearing.

Appointments Open For Chest Clinic

Appointments at the Free Chest Clinic to be held at Appomattox Court House, Nov. 18 can be arranged by writing Miss Marguerite L. Coppage, field nurse for the Southside Department of Health at the Southside Health Office, Farmville.

Examinations will be given white people from 9:20 o'clock until 12:30 in the morning, and from 2:30 until 4:30 in the afternoon.

The clinic is being offered here under the supervision of the tuberculosis out-patient service of the State Department of Health in co-operation with the Southside Health District.

Some 9000 persons have been examined annually in the Free Chest Clinics which the out-patient service arranges periodically in ninety-three counties in the state. Out of 8,446 patients examined in 1929, 5,853 were found to have some form of illness while only 1794 reported themselves as under medical care at the time of examination.

Clinics will be held in Prince Edward, Campbell, Charlotte, and Buckingham counties during the same week the clinic is held here.

O. E. S. Chapters Entertain Officer

Appomattox, Lynchburg and Rustburg Chapters, O. E. S. were visited in a group by Mrs. Emma Huddleston, Roanoke, Va., Worthy Grand Matron of Va., Order of the Eastern Star, on Monday evening, Oct. 27th at Marshall Lodge, Lynchburg.

The three chapters also had for their guests, Pamplin, Red Oak City and Chatham chapters.

The beautiful chapter room was filled and the work put on by the three entertaining chapters.

The Worthy Matron in an address complimented the work of the three chapters calling attention to some changes recently made in the special features of the work and expressing her appreciation of the co-operation of the chapters making possible her plan of visiting all chapters and promoting the co-operative and social spirit of the order.

Mrs. Deale Walsh Howard, past worthy Grand Matron of Va., Order of the Eastern Star was also present and added much to the occasion. She welcomed those present and spoke also of the greatness of the O. E. S. At the close of the chapter, all were invited to the banquet hall, where delicious refreshments were served.

Among those attending from Appomattox were: Mesdames W. L. Ould, Harry Johnston, L. E. Smith, H. M. Burge, Gladys Lacado, Catherine Gills Verta Smith and Perizza Coleman, Herbert Fulliam and B. G. Anderson.

Miss Avis Brown was a visitor in Richmond this week.

1100 HOMES SUPPLIED WITH SEWAGE DISPOSED F. H. HAWLEY REPORTS

Nearly 1100 homes in Appomattox County have been supplied with safe sewage disposal since last January, according to a report from F. H. Hawley, county sanitation officer. Seventy have been supplied within the last month.

Of the fourteen hundred homes visited by Mr. Hawley since the first of the year, only two had safe sewage disposal on the first visit.

Mr. Hawley's report shows that 122 sources of drinking water have been investigated with in the last nine months and seventeen have been found safe. Out of the ten investigated in September, four were pronounced safe by Mr. Hawley.

Mrs Ellie Paris is sick at her home.

P-T-A Committees Named at Meeting

Margaret Thompkins Attends State Convention At Lynchburg

Pupils of the third and fifth grades under the supervision of Miss Margaret Thompkins and Miss Mildred Kelley entertained the Parent-Teacher Association's meeting last Friday afternoon with a program.

Better English work, more science and sympathy for the backward pupils, more domestic methods; and where to place the blame for backward pupils were points stressed at the meeting as important in the schools.

Standing committees for the coming year were announced at the meeting by Lindsay Crawley, president of the organization. The committees are as follows: Grounds, R. B. Hudgins, J. A. Burke, and W. Wilkins; Health, Miss Odie Jones, Mrs. Arthur Irby and Mrs. C. F. James; program, Miss Mildred Kelley, Miss Elaine McDearmon, Miss Nola Barkley, and Mrs. Ola Furbush; finance, Mrs. N. E. Wagers, Mrs. L. Crawley and Miss Margaret Thompkins.

Library, Miss Kate O'Brien, Mrs. C. T. Moses, Miss Helen Welch; Athletics, Mrs. W. T. Smith, Chairman, Mr. R. W. Wilkins, Miss Mildred Kelly, Publicity, Miss Eddie Hardy, chairman, Miss Deane Johns, Mr. L. Crawley.

New members, Mrs. N. A. Wagers, chairman, Mrs. A. H. Irby, Miss Elva Stratton, Mrs W. R. Jobe, Mrs. W. E. Dickerson, Mrs. S. A. Anderson, Mrs. O. C. Paulett, Mrs. H. E. Smith, Mrs. H. M. Burge, Miss Kate Franklin, Mrs. Ormar Farrar, Miss Perizza Coleman Mrs. Duncan Conner, Mrs. P. F. Ragland, Miss Nola Burkey.

Visitation, Miss Nola Burkey chairman, Mrs. Geo. Langran, Mrs. J. D. Morris, Mrs. T. C. Stratton, Mrs. C. C. Cralle, Mrs. J. L. Lewis, Mrs. W. L. Ford, Mrs. J. Young, Mrs. J. A. Burke.

The state convention of the Parent-Teacher Association, held in Lynchburg Tuesday, was attended by Miss Margaret Thompson, delegate from the local chapter. Mrs. Ned A. Wagers, who was also appointed delegate was unable to attend.

Problems of the public school system in Virginia, child welfare, co-operation of home, school and church to enrich life and the possibility of more effective moral and religious education in public were discussed at the meeting.

Harris Hart, superintendent of public instruction in Virginia was the speaker at the morning session. Mr. Hart voiced disapproval of subsidization of public schools for private ends and the tendency to standardize courses too highly. Dr. J. N. Hillman, president of Emory and Henry College, spoke following Mr. Hart's address.

Miss Emily Dinwiddie told of the department welfare work at the afternoon meeting. The evening address was delivered by Clarence M. Dannelly, president of Kentucky Wesleyan College, Winchester, Ky., who spoke on "The Possibility of More Effective Moral and Religious Education in the Public Schools."

"Religious values reside in the very nature of education itself", Mr. Dannelly said. "The church and state have a joint responsibility to provide religious training." His address was largely devoted to suggestion for supplying the public school with religious education.

LYNCHBURG EXTENDS OFFICIAL INVITATION TO HALLOWE'EN FETE

An official invitation to attend the annual Lynchburg celebration on Hallowe'en night has been received by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Prizes are being offered at the celebration this year for the best out of town float. Approximately thirty thousand people from Lynchburg and surrounding communities attended the event last year.

A son was born Sunday, Oct. 26, to Mr. and Mrs W. Lewis McCormick.

ALL HALLOWS EVE HAS ANCIENT ORIGIN

Hallowe'en, the name given the eve or vigil of All Hallows, is almost universally observed. This popular festival originated in antiquity, the Hallowe'en fires being a survival of the Druidical ceremonies. As All Saints Day is the first of November, Hallowe'en is celebrated on the evening of Oct. 31.

The day, or rather night, has long been regarded by the superstitious as a time when witches are abroad, when supernatural manifestations occur. It was also thought to be an auspicious time to look into the future. Maidens in Old England sought by spell and rime to determine who their lovers would be. When the night air was heavy with mist, it was said to be the steam from the witches' kettle.

The Hallowe'en customs were brought with them from other shores by the early settlers in America. Now the observance of the festival is prevalent throughout the country. It became the occasion for the playing of pranks, ducking for apples in a tub of water, performing experiments in the realm of the mystic and indulging in other harmless fireside reveries.

The witch, the black cat and the pumpkin, are among the symbols used in Hallowe'en celebrations.

W. P. Inge Funeral Held At Evergreen

W. P. Inge, 65 years old who died Tuesday of a heart attack, was buried Wednesday afternoon in the family burial grounds at Evergreen. The Rev. W. M. Thompson assisted by the Rev E. S. Burnett conducted the funeral service which were held in the home.

Mr. Inge leaves two children a son, Carl, of Roanoke, and a daughter, Mrs. W. C. Garrett, who was living with her father at the time of his death. Mrs. Inge died five years ago. A large crowd attended the funeral in spite of the rain.

TURKEY CROP REPORTED INCREASED BY DROUGHT

While the drought has cut down the supply of many farm products and various kinds of live stock, the turkey crop will be larger than usual this year, according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service. Indications are that the supply will be about 5 per cent larger than last year. Dry, hot weather of the past season has been exceptionally favorable to the raising of young turkeys.

Steps toward organizing Post 104 have been taken before, but failure to bring together enough men to elect officers has prevented the completion of the organization.

The next meeting will be held the evening of Nov. 11 at 7:30 o'clock, and all men in the county eligible for membership are invited to attend. A chaplain will be elected at that time.

Prizes To Be Given In Recipe Contest

Housewives who have "tried and true" recipes for delectable old Southern dishes, will have an opportunity to win a prize in the weekly cookery contests which the Times Virginian will hold beginning next week.

Recipes for cakes, breads, pastries, in fact for everything from soups to frozen desserts, may be entered in the contests. A brightly laquered recipe file in red, green, or black, will be offered for the best recipe submitted each week.

Recipes will be judged primarily on the practical basis of the reliability, the simplicity of the ingredients, and the simplicity of the process of preparing the dish. However, dishes will also be judged for uniqueness.

The winning recipe for each week will be published in the Times Virginian. The contest is open to all who wish to compete, but no contestant may submit more than one recipe each week. Entrants for the contest should be sent to the Times Virginian office in care of Ladyfingers, not later than Monday noon of the week in which they are to be entered.

Bible Study Club Of Pamplin Meets

Pamplin, Oct. 29—The Bible Circle met at the home of Mrs. W. H. Ligon on Tuesday afternoon to study the book of Judges. Mrs. R. R. Davis was leader. After an interesting program, Mrs. T. J. Ligon served delicious refreshments. The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. T. R. Inge, in November, with Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald as leader.

The B. Y. P. U. held a most enjoyable social at the church on last Thursday evening. The Hallowe'en scheme was carried out. There were many witches, spooks and ghosts and hobjobbins around. Refreshment were served.

The W. C. T. U. held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Peterson on Wednesday afternoon. An interesting report of state meeting held in Danville was given by Mrs. E. E. McClenny.

Those who attended the Eastern Star banquet in Lynchburg on Monday night were

When Pa Comes Home in the Fall

"Who's the stranger, mother dear?
Look! he knows us—ain't he queer?
"Hush, my own, don't talk so wild;
He's your father, dearest child."
"He's my father? No such thing!
Father died away last spring.
"Father didn't die, you dub!
Father joined a golfing club.
But they've closed the club, so he
Has no place to go, you see—
No place left for him to roam—
That is why he's coming home.
Kiss him; he won't bite you, child!
All them golfing guys look wild."

Household Helps

Broken bits of licorice sprinkled about pantry shelves will, it is said, banish red arts. Borax is also good—the crystal and not the powder being used.

A pailful of lime kept in the closet with your jams and preserves will prevent moulding.

Sour milk added to the water with which oilcloth or linoleum is washed, gives it a luster like new.

Mustard plasters made with white of an egg will not blister, while the results will be as efficacious.

To bake potatoes quickly, boil them in salted water for ten minutes, then put in the oven. The boiling water will heat them through so that they will cook quickly.

Expert Bargaining

"Look here, Hiram," said Si, "when be you gwine to sell them eight dollars fer pasturin your heifer? I've had her now about ten weeks." Well, Si, the critter ain't worth mor'n ten dollars." "Well, s'posin I keep her fer what you owe me. Not by a whole lot! Tell you what I'll do, "keep her two more weeks, an' you can have her."

Style Hints

Hats, handbags, and shoes match, regardless of possible disagreement between the coat and the dress.

Black patent leather handbag, shoes and trimming scenes are a favorite Parisian combination of assesories.

For formal afternoon costumes velvet hats, shoes and handbags are the last word in chic when combined with dull ganton crepe. Black is the favorite color.

Velvet shoes are distinctly for indoor wear.

Good Things to Eat and How to Make Them

Batter Bread

4 teacups buttermilk
2 eggs
1 teacup of sifted meal, with a pinch of salt in it, also 1 level teaspoon of soda, lard size of a walnut. First melt your lard in the pan in which you are going to bake it. Beat eggs in a bowl, then add milk the meal, and lastly the melted grease. Pour in the greased pan and bake.

Parker House Rolls

1 cake Fleischmann's Yeast
2 tablespoonful sugar
3 pints of sifted flour
1 pint milk, scaled and cooled.
4 tablespoonful melted shortening
1 teaspoonful salt.

Disolve yeast and the sugar in lukewarm milk, add shortening and one and one-half pints of flour. Beat until perfectly smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place one hour, or until light. Then add remainder of flour, or enough to make a dough, and the salt. Knead well. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise in a warm place, for about one and one-half hours, or until double in bulk. Roll out one-fourth inch thick. Brush over lightly with melted butter, cut with two inch biscuit cutter, crease through center heavily with dull edge of knife, and fold over in pocket book shape. Place in well-greased, shallow pans one inch apart. Cover and let rise until high about three quarters of an hour. Bake ten minutes in a hot oven.

Spiritual Thought of the Week

(Rev. Ray C. King, as quoted in the Tribune, Oakland, Calif.)

The world's best seller (the Bible) is a love story. . . Thirty million copies of this story were printed last year, and it can be read in eight hundred and fifty different languages and dialects. This book is the world's best seller because it tells the greatest message that man ever heard. That message is that "God is Love." The heart of religion is not fear, though of punishment may turn a man to God. Love is the song that heaven and earth are singing in unison but based upon righteousness. "Search the scriptures," is the command of one whose life story is told therein. Like miners, who go deep into the heart of the earth for precious gold, so must we delve deep into the depth of the world's greatest book if he would find the bread of life for his soul.

Christianity has one legitimate weapon. It is to conquer the world by loving it, and in no other way.

Outstanding features of the new Chevrolet 6-cylinder truck

To every man who buys trucks, there are certain features in the new 1½-ton Chevrolet that recommend it especially for modern hauling.

The rear axle is larger, heavier and more durable. The rear brakes are larger, and all four brakes are completely enclosed. Chevrolet's 50-horsepower valve-in-head six-cylinder engine combines modern performance with unexcelled economy. Dual wheels, along with six truck-type cord tires, are optional equipment at slight extra cost. In addition, the new heavy-duty truck clutch, the 4-speed transmission and the heavier, stronger frame are factors of outstanding importance to the modern truck user.

Come in today and arrange for a demonstration of the new Chevrolet truck!
